Forecast For Southwest England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Thursday 30 Dec 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Remaining changeable but very mild over the coming days.

Today:
A rather cloudy and damp start with some patchy rain in places. It will turn drier and brighter for a time around the middle of the day, before further patchy rain and drizzle arrives later. Feeling mild despite the cloud. Maximum temperature 15 deg C (59 deg F).

Tonight:
Staying rather cloudy with some drizzle in places this evening, before a band of rain and stronger winds moves in overnight. Mild overnight with temperatures staying in double figures. Minimum temperature 11 deg C (52 deg F).

Friday:
New Year's Eve will start rather grey and damp, but it should turn drier and brighter, especially in the east, throughout the afternoon. Remaining very mild with winds easing. Maximum temperature 15 deg C (59 deg F).

Outlook for Saturday to Monday:
A very mild, bright but blustery day on New Year's Day with a scattering of showers. Remaining similar on Sunday, before it turns drier but colder on Bank Holiday Monday.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.